Chapel Hymn

O, give us lofty visions,
Inspiring heart and will
With glowing, glad surrender
Our calling to fulfill.
We launch upon Thy service,
Relying, hour by hour,
On Thy divine enabling,
Thy resurrection power.

As we proclaim the story
Of Thy redeeming love,
Thy banner's radiant glory
Will guide us from above.
And now, triumphant Master,
May this our motto be:
"Our Utmost for Thy Highest!"
In all eternity!

From

The President

Recently this writer was in Chicago's Loop in the late afternoon when thousands of office and store employees poured into the streets, hurrying to buses and trains. Their faces told a fact that is significant of our times—the lack of genuine happiness. In the great majority the lines of anxiety, worry, and tension revealed a common state of mind.

This observation has been confirmed by many medical authorities, who have a name for it—anxiety-neurosis. Various causes have been given, and no doubt all play a part. The fast tempo of modern life; the mechanization of industry with its disregard for human values; the lack of social and economic security; the threat that the cold war will lead to World War III; abounding evil in the world; disillusionment in human measures for world betterment—all contribute to the common sorrow of our times.

But there are other causes below the surface: the loss of faith in God and divine revelation; the consequent disregard for divine authority; the prevalence of sinful indulgences and pleasures offered as a release from strain and worry—these are among the basic causes.

What a day for the joy and gladness of Christian experience! The only people in the world who have genuine cause for happiness are Christians. True, they look realistically at the world's sorrow, but to compensate for this sobering view, grace brings a "hope that maketh not ashamed" and a "joy unspeakable and full of glory."

The radiance of Christian experience can be a telling testimony to a worried and anxious generation. From the pen of a singer of Psalms in a far-off day comes timely counsel for us: "Many sorrows shall be to the wicked; but he that trusteth in the Lord, mercy shall compass him about. Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye righteous; and shout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart."

In the 42nd and 43rd Psalms, David repeats the refrain, "For I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God." God is the health of the believer's countenance. He is the Author of spiritual radiance. He intended that the face should mirror that inner gladness of heart that comes from imparted grace.

Like David, the believer must take his eyes off himself and look to God. Introspection must give way to a faith whose eye is focused on Jesus Christ.

“Ad Building” Renamed

in honor of

Rev. D. Y. Schultz

With the change of administrative offices from the oldest building on the campus to Bethany Hall, it became necessary to select a new name for the “Ad Building” as it has been known in recent years.

The Governing Board in its meeting on August 19 decided that it would be fitting to name it after the founder who planned and labored more than any other to bring the first building into being. The name chosen was Schultz Hall in honor of the Rev. D. Y. Schultz, distinguished co-founder and first Superintendent of the Institute. Announcement of the new name was made the next day at the annual B. I. Rally held in connection with the Annual Convention of the Central District of the Missionary Church Association. Rev. Walter Lugibihl, son of one of the founders of the Institute, gave the following brief address regarding Mr. Schultz:

“Founders’ Memorial Building in which we find ourselves was dedicated to the memory of six men who are recognized as founders of the Institute. In the forthcoming history proper recognition is to be given to all; we are thinking now in particular of Mr. Schultz.

“Daniel Y. Schultz was born near Clayton, Berks County, Pa., on January 8, 1865. He was converted at the age of eleven years and became a member of the Evangelical Association. His interest in spiritual things was manifested in reading his Bible through four times by the time of his twelfth birthday.

“When twenty-one years of age, he was graduated from the Kutztown, Pa., State Normal, and taught school for four years. In 1889 he was married to Miss Flora Funk, also a school teacher. That year they went to live in the Missionary Training School, then in New York City, where Mr. Schultz taught English while studying God’s Word. He served as pastor in a near-by church where he preached in English and German. Later he taught in an orphanage in College Point, N. Y.

“In 1896 Mr. Schultz came to teach in the Bethany Home Bible School in Bluffton, Ohio, where as a boy I first learned to know him. He served as Principal and Bible teacher for three years, then continued his ministry in other places.

“In January, 1904, the M. C. A. opened a Bible School in Bluffton, Ohio, and again he was one of the instructors. That fall the old Administration Building was begun in Fort Wayne with Brethren J. E. Ramseyer, D. Y. Schultz, Chris Hirschy, David Roth, and William Egle serving as the Building Committee. The architect worked with and under the direction of Mr. Schultz, who was the most versatile, many-sided man I have ever met. On January 3, 1905, the school was formally opened in the City Rescue Mission on East Columbia Street while the building was being completed. When not checking up with the architect or contractors or firing the furnace to hasten the drying of the plaster, Mr. Schultz was teaching us the Book of Romans and Advanced English.

"Before moving into the building in mid-February, he with Mrs. Schultz as Superintendents had worked out the placing of the 50 resident students (the total enrollment was 68), assigning them their rooms and their hour's work. He also maintained the curriculum and saw that things were running smoothly in the dining room and kitchen.

"Mr. Schultz was a hard worker—too hard for his own good. Although he could turn from a Bible exposition, Homiletics, or his Greek New Testament to help shovel back the winter's supply of coal in order to save a few dollars, he did not feel that he was lowering the dignity of the profession. I know, for I helped him. After manual work, he would then clean up for his class or office work. The indebtedness on the school was a great concern to him, due to his early training in thrift.

"To Mr. Schultz, more than to any other man, we are indebted for the Fort Wayne Bible Training School, as it was then called. He was the brains behind it. My father was there, but was not qualified to take the initiative. Bro. Ramseyer was traveling most of the time and Brother Egle preached and had his printing business. While Brethren David and Henry Roth of Grabill, Ind., were always at hand when needed, yet Mr. and Mrs. Schultz carried the load of the school educationally, financially, and spiritually. Both were well qualified for their responsibilities. They were strict disciplinarians. They continued to serve until May, 1911, when Mr. Schultz resigned to engage in Bible school work in Toccoa, Ga. He also served on the West Coast as a Bible Conference teacher and preacher.

"Brother Schultz was of a nervous temperament, always taking his responsibilities seriously. This began to show its effect in the last few years of his life, developing into spinal sclerosis. On December 26, 1918, just twelve days before his 54th birthday anniversary, he went to be with the Lord, whom he loved and served. In 1945 Mrs. Schultz,

Death of Mr. Bert Hollopeter

The Institute suffered the loss of a friend and patron of the school in the sudden passing away of Mr. Bert Hollopeter, a Fort Wayne Christian business man, on June 30th. Mr. Hollopeter was President and Treasurer of the Schlatter Hardware Company, and for many years had been interested in the work of the Institute, giving generously for various needs. He had contributed for the construction of Bethany Hall and Founders' Memorial, and had also made a generous gift for the acquisition of the new Wiebke property. He was very much interested in Bible distribution and helping needy students. Mr. Hollopeter had confidence in the integrity of the Institute and was wholly in sympathy with its objectives.

Mr. Hollopeter was stricken just a few days before his death and did not survive an operation on June 29th. Besides bequeathing two properties valued at $93,000 on the annuity plan, Mr. Hollopeter made the Institute the residuary legatee of his estate. However, due to a number of variable factors, chiefly those of Government taxation, it is too early to say at this time what the residue will be. However, it is received as a further token of God's provision "for this vine of His own planting."

The following statement of appreciation for the life and work of Mr. Hollopeter was adopted by both the Annual Conference of the Missionary Church Association assembled in Van Nuys, Calif., July 21, 1949, and by the Governing Board of the Bible Institute on August 19, 1949, and made a part of their permanent records:

"Mr. Hollopeter was an able business executive and faithful husband who devoted most of his time to his business and his home, but as an evangelical Christian he was devoted above all else to the Lord Jesus Christ and the cause of the gospel. He was interested in training young people for Christian service; in the distribution of the Bible; in evangelism and missionary work. He was a firm believer in the imminent return of Jesus Christ and felt an urgency to 'make haste in the business of the King.'

"As a business man he had to have confidence in the integrity of a Christian institution and its efficient use of the Lord's money. That he had unqualified confidence in the Fort Wayne Bible Institute as expressed in making it the residuary legatee of his estate and the responsible agent in providing a life income for his widow, should be accepted with humility rather than pride and as a challenge to vindicate the confidence vested therein. Mr. Hollopeter never sought any recognition for his gifts, and in his bequest to the Institute not a single stipulation was made to perpetuate his name. In the light of this self-effacement it is all the more fitting that we thus sincerely express our appreciation for Mr. Hollopeter's philanthropy and for

the SUN CROWNED WOMAN

BY DR. JOHN PAUL

There is one order of Jesus less obeyed perhaps than any other He ever gave; not because it conflicts with some carnal preference in man, but because few have ever discovered the explanation of the order; it is hard to do something that is pointless and meaningless to our understanding. This is the order: "Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her."—Matt. 26:13.

Jesus had explained that she poured that ointment on His body for His burial. As John states it, "Against the day of my burying hath she kept this." Judas had estimated its ready cash value at three hundred pence. A Roman penny was an eighth of an ounce of silver, which was equivalent to fifteen cents, as silver was worth a dollar and a quarter an ounce. Its value therefore was forty-five dollars, quite a sum to spend for a funeral design. But the anointing of a body was a custom amounting to a ritual, and it symbolized valuation and esteem. There were other women whose intentions were good, who were more alert than the men, and they prepared to anoint the body of Jesus, but they missed it. When they "bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him" (Mark 16:1) they might as well have given the money to the poor who were still with them, for Jesus was gone!

Though this writer must confess that he was very tardy in seeing it, few things are plainer than the intelligence and spiritual understanding of Mary, the sister of Martha and Lazarus. I preached once in Meadville, Pennsylvania, where dwells the millionaire whose one simple idea was worth more than a gold mine or several oil wells. He invented the zipper, the hookless fastener, now eagerly used in every nation, under this man's patent; and thousands of more talented men than he are exclaiming, "Why couldn't I think of that?" At first reflection it may not seem remarkable that Mary, for weeks before, could understand that Jesus, her Messiah, and the Son of the living God, would have to die to complete His plan of salvation; and could symbolize her faith and her fellowship with His suffering by saving forty-five dollars' worth of ointment to anoint the body of the world's Redeemer. If she had done it blindly and in ignorance of its meaning, Jesus would have made a tactful explanation to this effect. But He plainly says she saved it

Building Renovation

The summer was a busy one for the corps of workers under the supervision of Mr. Francis deCausin, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. The old Ad building underwent extensive improvements, and many favorable comments have been heard from visitors and guests. The halls were re-decorated and new asphalt tile flooring was laid.

Residence Hall has also been completed. It now has a fine brick exterior like that of Founders' Memorial. The work was done by Mr. Wilbur Ponchot and his son, Eugene. Their helpers were Roland Ponchot and Neil Wolfe.

Residence Hall was dedicated during the annual Bible Institute Rally held on August 20th during the Central District Convention of the Missionary Church. Rev. J. A. Ringenberg offered the dedicatory prayer. Open house preceded the dedicatory service.

Praise is offered to God for this fine building which goes a long way toward solving the difficult problem of finding living quarters for staff members. Since the Institute is in a high-cost residential area the problem has been doubly difficult for modest-salaried people. The nine apartments and the five-room dispensary are a valuable asset to the school plant.

The administrative offices were moved to the first floor of Bethany Hall this past summer. This change provides more room for men in Schultz Hall, and tends to equalize dormitory space for men and women. It is more convenient and practicable to have the offices at the center of the campus, and there is greater security for records in a fire-resistant building. One other advantage is that Bethany Hall has a fine lobby and reception room for guests and visitors. This has just been completely refurnished through the generosity of the Dunbar Furniture Company of Berne, Ind., and the Sun-Vertikal Blind Company of Fort Wayne.

Opening of Fall Semester

The fall semester opened with a promising group of students on Tuesday, September 13. New students took their examinations on that day while returning students registered. On Wednesday new students registered, and first classes met on Thursday.

Rev. Kenneth Geiger, pastor of the United Missionary Church of Goshen, Ind., was the special speaker at the opening services of the fall semester. He gave timely and well-received messages from Wednesday through Friday, September 14-16, speaking in special chapel periods in the morning and in public services in the evening.

A feature of the opening days was the faculty reception on Thursday, September 15, followed by a supper for all in the school dining hall. It succeeded in its purpose of making students and faculty acquainted with each other.

Annual Report of Fellowship Circle President

Dear Members of the Fellowship Circle:

On the evening of June 2, approximately 500 members and friends of the Fellowship Circle gathered for the annual meeting in the Institute dining room in Founder's Memorial. A lovely dinner was served to us. This always involves a great deal of work. The Institute kitchen and dining room staff and student help are to be commended for the splendid way they served us. Adding color and cheer to the event was the work of the decorating committee. Behind the speaker's table the wall was decorated with yellow and green streamers of crepe paper. Across this background in large brown letters were the words, "Ye are the light of the world." The tables were attractively decorated with yellow and green streamers. Lovely bouquets of flowers and flickering candles also added cheer to the occasion.

Following the dinner, a program was presented. Under the direction of Professor Steiner, we sang a number of well-known hymns. Dean Gerig gave a resume of the work at the Institute for the year, reporting that the good hand of God has been upon the school. Soul uplifting numbers were given by the men's radio ensemble and by both the Men's and Ladies' Choruses.

As a project for the year the Fellowship Circle, under the direction of the Executive Committee, assumed the responsibility of raising money to recondition the first floor of the administration building. To date $505.00 has come in for the project.

This past year brought to a close my three-year term of serving the organization as president. I want to express my deepest appreciation to each one who has in any way assisted the Fellowship Circle to achieve her objectives. I also want to wish the new president, Brother Clifford Grabill, and his committee and every member of the Fellowship Circle, the Lord's richest blessings.

Yours in Christian Fellowship,
Orlan Golden

THE MAILBAG

Mrs. Rachel M. Gaddis (nee Rachel Moser) writes:

"I praise the Lord for the many souls that have found the Lord this past year in our meetings that were held in Kentucky, Georgia, Florida, Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas. Surely God is working in a mighty way and the day of revival is not over. We as a party are planning to labour in Central America for two months next winter D. V."

From Theresa Keifer we hear:

"I do wish Agnes and I could visit the school again. We talk about good old B. I. so much. Agnes has two adorable children now. A boy 2½ and a girl 6 months. We have her little boy here for weeks at a time and he loves it but is always anxious to go back to Mommie and Daddy. He says that Jesus came to live in his heart and took his sins away. We think he is a remarkable child to remember so many Bible passages, etc. Of course we would think so. Ha! Ha! Tell the class hello for me."

From Chicago, Illinois, Dale Baggs writes:

"Am happy to learn of the fine progress being made in various ways at the Bible Institute. And especially in connection with this summer's improvements to the Administration Building."

THE SUN CROWNED WOMAN
with that motive, "against the day of my burying."

We forget that in those days even the apostles could not catch the idea of Christ's sacrificial death. They were translating it all into symbols and apostrophes—everything the prophets said about the Saviour's sacrifice, and everything Jesus said about it. Little were they prepared to meet reality. What would their penniless company have done, if the noble Joseph of Arimathaea had not sensed the embarrassment and come forward to offer his own new tomb, which out of sentiment he had carved, telling his family, "When I die, here is where I want you to lay my body"? He got it back in plenty of time for his own needs, but his humble heart refused to deem his body worthy to rest where the body of his Lord had lain. He changed the order of his own burial.

Yes, Mary understood; she got the idea before its time had come. She had not sat at Jesus' feet in vain and stood the complaints of her busy sister and let herself be misunderstood. (Luke 10:40). And the world has not expounded quite all that was meant in Jesus' words when He said, "Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her." Jesus likes to be understood. He has a peculiar interest in them who with right understanding can fellowship His sufferings. It is hard to think that the inventors of electric lights and telephones and radio and anesthetics and other essentials of life and health will ever be forgotten; yet they were merely pioneers in seeing something. They strikingly illustrate Ruskin's remarks that for every hundred who can hear there is only one who can speak; for every hundred who can speak there is only one who can think; and for every hundred who can think there is only one who can see. When all these inventors are forgotten, Mary of Bethany will still be remembered. Ahead of the leaders, ahead of the illuminated people of her day, she saw the secret of our Redemption. We shall have to say that if Mary did not exceed the other women in devotion and diligence, she exceeded in understanding. Eaton S. Barrett hands the womanhood of that day a deserved compliment when he writes:

"Not she with traitorous kiss
her Saviour stung.
Not she denied Him with unholy
tongue;
She, while apostles shrank, could
danger brave,
Last at His cross and earliest at
His grave."

God and Prayer

Only a stone in a simple sling,
In the hand of one little boy;
    But it felled in a stroke
    The giant of Gath,
Whom David had pledged to destroy.

The blasphemous taunts of the mighty man
Would never again annoy;
    Stopped by a stone
    Directed of God,
And the faith of one brave boy.

The odds seemed against the shepherd lad
As he hurled the one smooth stone
    In the name of the Lord;
    But it reached its mark,
For God was still on the Throne!

Only a stammering prayer on the lips
Of the weakest saint today,
    Will release the pow'r
    Of a Mighty God,
And Satanic forces, stay!

“Ask what ye will,” the Master said,
“In my name ye shall receive;
    Great and mighty things
    Shalt thou do,
If only thou canst believe.”

And shall we hinder the work of God,
Or limit His power today,
    By a lack of faith
    And prayer—forbid!
Teach us, dear Lord, to pray.
